

ABSTRACT

A single housing multi-detection apparatus installed at a surveillance location to activate different devices at different time. This multi-detection apparatus includes at least one control circuit
5 board to receive signals output from at least two detection units at different time and activate different devices at different time to achieve multiple detection and surveillance functions.